

Emma's Diary

— Michel Ebben —

— Emma's Diary —

Emma says it's late
Emma doesn't mind
Emma needs those moments
For which most of us are blind

Emma loves to listen
Songs to set her free
Emma smiles; "I'm lucky
She's the better half of me"

Hmmm

Emma needs her freedom
Like a poet longs for pain
Like a painter needs his colors
Like a garden needs the rain

Emma knows the game is rigged
They play with every sin
Emma knows the distance
Slowly grows, from within

Now Emma thinks I'm crazy
And says that I'm confused
Emma loves to fight
She knows she won't lose

Emma's built her army
Mostly out of words
Sometimes Emma summons monsters
Hiding in her world

Cause Emma needs her secrets
Like birds need the sky
Like a flower needs the sunlight
Like a baby needs to cry

Emma grows more friendly
With every season turned
Cause Emma's met the bitter end
And she knows, hmm, it'll hurt

Hmmm

Hmmm

Hmmm

Hmmm

But sometimes Emma wanders
Far beyond my reach
She likes traveling places
Most likely I... will never see

Look, Emma pours her wine
It's three in the afternoon
Now you might think that's early
But Emma says; "well, it's never too soon..."

Hmmm

Hmmm

Hmmm
